UDSON RIVER AT HIGH POINT

od, Caused by Melting Snow, Believed to Have Reached Its Crest

ALBANY IS 'WET'

lbany, April 12.—The Hudson river e tonight was at the highest point ce the spring of 1913, at a late hour ing reached a point 16 feet and ht inches above normal and still ng gradually. tI was believed, wever, that the flood, caused largely the sudden melting of snow beise of the warm weather and heavy ns in the Adirondacks, soon would ch its crest. Reports from along Mohawk river indicated that its ters were receding, and from along upper Hudson word came that re had been no appreciable rise ring the day.

Lower Broadway, opposite the Hud- river night line landing, was subrged completely and the night boat s obliged to take on its passengers a landing farther down the river. eet car service to Rensselaer was errupted, passengers being obliged walk a considerable distance. acks used by the West Shore and laware & Hudson railroads in the in yards were under water.

Damage Not Large.

Although many cellars were flooded the lower part of the city, the propy damage was not large, as the ners, forewarned, had moved most their goods.

The amount of damage the sudden e of the water caused the Hudson igation company has not been estited. A good deal of freight was ught on the dock this morning. mpany officials did not care to estiate their loss until a careful check the shipments had been made.

The United Traction company and bany Southern cars coming from nsselaer were forced to stop south the steamboat square because the ter in Broadway reached above ir motors. A terminus was estabhed at the foot of Madison avenue. tomobiles could still get through oadway if they were driven slowly. ny who went fast, thereby crosscuiting their ignition systems, were rooned and required being towed dry land.

The D. & H. and West Shore passger trains from the south did not oceed further than Broadway and urch street after noon, as the wa- at the foot of Maiden lane had ached Dean street, making it over e level of the fireboxes of the passger locomotives. Passengers were off at Church street and a traction r was run as a shuttle between urch street and the station. D. & and West Shore trains will leave om in front of the day line office til the water allows them to reach e union station on the lower level.

Crest Believed Reached.

Glens Falls, April 12. — The Hudn river is still at flood height toght, but the rise in the water was ss than half an inch today and unss there is more heavy rain, it is beved that the crest has been reachd. The water in Lake Champlain as risen eight inches since the heavy ll of last night, and the mountain reams and rivers are pouring enorous quantities of water into the lake. erry landings and steamboat docks e flooded, and considerable damage as been caused.

The flood in the Hudson river in is city is far from being of the proortions of the freshet of 1913, when e steel bridge was destroyed. The ow tonight is 50,000 cubic feet a secnd, while the flow at the height of e 1913 flood was 89,000.

SEMENOFF SEEN AS 'HUMAN BUTCHER'

Russian Leader Responsible for Many Crimes, Senate Labor Committee Is Told

Washington, April 12.—Charges of "human butchery" made by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, against General Gregorie Semenoff, Russian anti-Bolshevik leader, were testified to today before the senate labor committee by two leaders of the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, Brigadier General W. S. Graves, commander, and Colonel Charles H. Morrow, his chief aide, who gave instance after instance of murder, rape and banditry which occurred during the period of American occupation of the region.

Called before the committee in an investigation which Chairman Borah hopes may lead to deportation of General Semenoff, now under arrest in a civil c in New York, the two army officers gave accounts of crime, described as unbelievable unless witnessed, excerpts from official army records and other evidence covering the period between September, 1918, and April, 1920, of a nature seldom, if ever, laid before a congressional committee.

At the conclusion, Mr. Borah turned to Colonel Morrow, the witness, and said

"You were there. Now tell us who, in your opinion, was responsible."

"Semenoff!" Colonel Morrow shot back. "Anybody who was in that part of the world at that time knows he was responsible."

Weeks Defends Department Against Charges in House

Washington, April 12.— In a formal statement replying to charges made yesterday on the floor of the House, Secretary Weeks declared today that the war department was doing "everything possible" to clear up war contract controversies in such a way as to fully protect the interests of the federal government.

Cash and property amounting to "many millions" already have been recovered in the re-auditing ordered by the present administration, the secretary said, and other contracts were being reviewed as rapidly as possible.

Referring to statements that the firm of Hornblower and Weeks had been involved in the sale of the Boach Magneto company, Mr. Weeks said he had not been connected with that firm since 1913.

Referring specifically to requests for an investigation made by Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, and Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, the secretary said that if congress thought an inquiry advisable the war department would "welcome it."

O'CONNOR'S CLERK ADMITS HIS GUILT

Issued 14 Liquor Withdrawal Permits Without Chief's Knowledge; Case in Hands of Jury

New York, April 12.— That he had issued 14 liquor withdrawal permits from the office of Charles O'Connor of the internal revenue department here, without Mr. O'Connor's knowledge for James Williams, whom he believed to be a bootlegger, was the admission of Leo Linder, formerly a clerk in Mr O'Connor's office, in feder court in Brooklyn today.

Linder testified for the state in the trial of Williams, who is alleged to have used the permits to purchase 1,040 cases and 20 barrels of whiskey from the Reiners Corporation, dealers in liquor for non-beverage purposes. Linder also admitted that he had placed the official "O. K." upon the permits when Reiners called to see if they were genuine.

Riners testified that he was paid $40,000 by Williams for the liquor which he sold after visiting Linder in the internal revenue office. Linder is under indictment in Brooklyn for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

Williams submitted no evidence in defense, and the case was given to the jury after the lawyers had summed up.

GIRL SENTENCED TO LONG PRISON TERM

Gussie Humann Convicted of Perjury in Her Testimony at Sweetheart's Murder Trial

New York, April 12. — Gussie Humann, convicted of perjury in her testimony at the recent murder trial of her sweetheart, Joseph Libasci, was sentenced today by Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Long Island City to not less than seven years and six months, and not more than 15 years in Auburn prison.

Miss Humann's trial for perjury was her second trial in connection with the slaying of Garbe, her one-time sweetheart, October 27.

First indicted with Libasci for murder, she was freed by the court because of insufficient evidence. She appeared as a witness for the defense at Libasci's trial and testified that Libasci was with her in a dance hall at the time that Garbe was killed.

Libasci pleaded guilty despite her testimony and she was indicted for perjury.

During her trial on this charge, Libasci expressed a desire to marry her but she was dissuaded by her family and Justice Lewis.

Just before the girl was arraigned for sentence, she confessed to Justice Lewis she was present with Libasci and Harry Ricca when Garbe was shot. The justice gave out her confession after she had been sentenced. In it, she said, Libasci is the father of her child.

Justice Lewis said he asked the girl why she lied to detectives and why she lied at the trial, and she answered. "Joe told me to."

SEVENTEEN NORMAL STUDENTS EXPELLED

Violation of Regulations, Including Smoking and Auto Riding, Causes Dismissals

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 12.— Seventeen women students at the State Normal college here have been asked to leave the institution and 13 others have been placed on probation, it was learned today, as the result of alleged infractions of school regulations.

Coincident with this information, a proclamation was issued by Charles McKenney, president, and Mrs. Bessie Leach Priddy, dean of women, to faculty members, citing a list of things that are forbidden at the school. The college will not knowingly permit any young woman to remain in school, much less graduate her, who smokes tobacco, the proclamation stated.

"Until the people of Michigan change their attitude and are willing to take women smokers as teachers the college will adhere to this policy," it added.

Evasions of closing hours, automobile riding without permission, attentions from strange men, and "gaining access to rooming houses by way of windows," also are on the list of forbidden adventures.

1923 NAVAL BUDGET IN HOSTILE WATERS

At End of Long House Debate, Leaders Predict Defeat of 65,000-Men Proposition

Washington, April 12.—The 1923 naval budget ran through hostile waters in the house today.

As the weary end of eight solid hours of debate was reached tonight, with less than a corporal's guard on the floor, the air was filled with claims by leaders opposed to the bill's provision for an enlisted force of 65,000, that votes enough had been pledged to beat it.

This prediction, coupled with violent attacks on the measure, took the edge off Chairman Kelley's smile, and once or twice he put on his fighting clothes. Time and again the chairman broadly charged that back of the movement for a bigger navy was the desire of members from navy yard districts to increase the total appropriation so that the activities of these establishments might not be curtailed.

Suggestions from some sources that the committee add a little to its personnel strength were cast aside by Chairman Kelley with the declaration that the bill had to stand or fall as reported, and that if the enlisted figure was raised to 86,000 there would be a record vote in the house.

Most of the speeches today were against the bill. Representative McArthur of Oregon, Republican member of the naval committee, in announcing that he would offer an amendment providing for 86,000 men, told the house it ought not shift the responsibility of writing the bill to the shoulders of the senate.

"Face the issue squarely here and don't pass it along to the senate to give the navy enough men to maintain the treaty ratio," he declared.

GOVERNOR VETOES HYLAN PAY BOOST

Disapproves Bill Designed to Raise Salaries of New York City Officials

Albany, April 12.—Governor Miller today vetoed the bill designed to increase the salary of Mayor Hylan of New York from $15,000 to $25,000 annually, with the explanation that the measure "is a plain violation of the principle of home rule." Provisions of the measure also proposed a $10,000 a year salary increase for Comptroller Craig of New York and an increase from $5,000 to $15,000 annually for Murray Hulbert, president of the board of aldermen.

In a lengthy memorandum accompanying the veto, the governor declared that the mayor's reason for voting measures seeking increases for other employes of New York city "applies with double force to this bill." The governor also indicated an intention to follow the mayor's suggestion and veto 16 of 19 measures proposing salary increaes for employes of counties within New York city.

MRS. M'CORMICK CONTENDS LACES ARE NOT DUTIABLE

Chicago, April 12.—Rather than to pay duty on antique laces valued at about $80,000, which she gathered in Europe, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick today said she would send them back to Switzerland. The pieces of lace are said to be more than 100 years old, and it is contended should be classed as antiques and not dutiable but they were sewed together in several large mats for exhibition purposes, which, it is said, cost them their antiquity under the law. Mrs. McCormick contended the laces were sewed together with another piece of rare lace reduced to thread. The matter had been referred to Neils Juul, collector of customs.

NOTED SURGEON, ONCE WORTH HALF MILLION, DIES IN JAIL

Chicago, April 12.—Dr. J. C. Willis, a famous surgeon and bank president, and ten years ago worth half a million dollars, died in the county jail today where he was awaiting trial on charges of passing $13 worth of bogus checks.

Dr. Willis wrote many medical textbooks and was a recognized authority on certain nerve diseases. He lost his fortune through speculation.

EDDIE FARRELL BANNED FROM UNIVERSITY TEAM

Philadelphia, April 12. — Marshall Payne, star first baseman of the University of Pennsylvania baseball team, today was declared ineligible for the remainder of the season by the faculty of the Wharton School of Finance.

This, coupled with the banning of Edward Farrell, shortstop, and William Llewellyn, one of last year's hurling stars, because of scholastic difficulties, has hampered the smooth-working inner cordon of the Pennsylvania machine, according to Coach Harris.

Eddie Farrell's scholastic difficulties will not be viewed with great alarm by Oneonta baseball fans, who aren't as much interested in what Eddie knows about higher mathematics as what he knows about baseball, which is considerable. Farrell was a popular member of last year's team and will again act up around shortstop the coming summer.

JURY ACQUITS MOVIE ACTOR

Roscoe C. Arbuckle Found Not Guilty of Death of Virginia Rappe, Actress

QUICK DECISION

Verdict Was by Acclamation, Deliberation Not Lasting One Minute

San Francisco, April 12.—A verdict of acquittal was returned by a jury last night in the third trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle on a manslaughter charge growing out of the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress. The jury was out six minutes. The defendant was deeply affected. He received the verdict with a great sigh of relief. There was no demonstration, the court having warned against it. Mrs. Minta Durfee Arbuckle, the defndant's wife, wept quietly. Both she and Arbuckle shook hands with the jurors.

The quick return of the jury was a surprise.

Edward Brown, whose presence on the jury was objected to by the prosecution, was foreman. There was a slight delay when the jury returned due to the absence of the district attorney.

The verdict was by acclamation, the deliberation taking less than a minute. The additional time was consumed by details.

Jurors and spectators crowded around Arbuckle and his counsel and finally bore him off to the jury room to congratulate him further.

"Arbuckle has no immediate plans," Gavin McNab, his chief counsel said. "It was a splendid victory."

"The jury did its duty," was the comment of Milton T. U'Ren, assistant district attorney.

ARMS CONFERENCE PRAYER CENSORED

Senator Caraway Charges Clergyman Was Told Not to Mention Name of Christ

Washington, April 12.— The question of whether the name of Christ was "censored out" of the opening prayer of the arms conference was raised again today in the senate.

Asking the question and answering it himself in the affirmative, Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, produced what he said was a copy of a letter written by the Rev. W. F. Abernethy, who delivered the prayer, saying he had been "reminded" there would be Buddhists and Confucionists present and told that it was the feeling that a simple recognition of the Deity "would fill the requirements."

The Arkansas senator also recalled that Secretary Hughes had written a letter to Representative Fess, Republican of Ohio, denying flatly that there was any "censorship."

"Lay Dr. Abernethy's statement alongside that of Mr. Hughes," continued Senator Caraway. "You can believe either one. You can't believe both. For my part I believe Dr. Abernethy."

To further pay his respects to the secretary of state and other American delegates, Mr. Caraway added that Mr. Hughes was the only one who saved anything from the arms conference when he saved his whiskers.

MAN RESISTING ARREST IS SHOT DEAD, COP WOUNDED

New York, April 12.— In a gun duel fought tonight at the busy East Side corner of Clinton and Delancy streets, Henry Climick was shot to death and Patrolman Henry O'Brien seriously wounded.

Hundreds of pedestrians scurried for cover when the patrolman and Climick, who resisted arrest, started firing at each other. O'Brien was struck first, in the hip, but continued firing. Climick retreated slowly and fell with a bullet through the face as he reached the corner. He died soon after being taken to a hospital.

Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, were denied by the board after the brotherhood chiefs had conferred with Vice Chairman Hooper.

Questions to be considered at the hearing, set for May 1, were discussed in the conference. It was arranged that the firemen should take the stand first. The engineers will follow.

CONAN DOYLE TELLS HOW IT IS TO DIE

Death Not Painful, But Pleasant Process, Spiritualist Informs New York Audience

(By The Associated Press)

New York, April 12. — Sir Arthur Conan Doyle tonight described the sensations of the deathbed as he said they had been communicated to him from beyond the Styx.

Listening to him was a vast audience, an audience that filled Carnegie hall, an audience many of whose members soon will board Charon's craft for the voyage all must take. Palsied heads shook with emotion as the earnest words fell from the lips of a man who has turned from medicine and letters to a search for the spiritual.

Death is not painful, but a pleasant process, said Sir Arthur. As death approaches, the soul—the etheric body—floats out from its earthly shell, and hovers above the clay, tethered only by the silver cord of which ecclesiastics speak. The only sensation is one of delicious languor.

The first sight that greets the eye is one of smiling, loving faces bending over the deathbed, continued Sir Arthur.

"Proof?" he asked.

"I have stood beside the dying, seen hands turning cold in death stretch out, heard words of endearment fall from lips that soon would move no more. Delirium, say materialists. No, it is not delirium."

"Proof?" asked the preacher of spiritualism again. "The disengaging of the etheric body can be, has been, photographed. I am fortunate enough to have such a plate."

Then he told of eight daughters—all clairvoyants—who had sat beside their dying mother.

"It was lovely to see the etheric body disengage itself," he said. "There was a multiplicity of beautiful lights."

Other accounts, agreeing in detail, had been given of the passing of a soul, he said.

"Is that not good evidence?" he asked.

The tense silence was broken as the audience, obviously in sympathy with the doctrines of Sir Arthur, broke into prolonged applause.

ARMY AIR SERVICE APPEAL TO SENATE

Chief Patrick and Other Officers Urge Reversal of House Cut in Funds

Washington, April 12.—Ranking officers of the army air service today asked the senate appropriations committee to reverse the action of the house, in cutting down the war department request for funds for aircraft. Major General Patrick, chief of the air service and Brigadier General Mitchell, his assistant, compared aviation development at home and abroad and said the house bill was not "constructive."

"It leaves us just barely holding on," said General Mitchell, who returned recently from an investigating tour of Europe.

Suggesting that the cut from $1,200,000 to $3,250,000 for research and development was made after the Roma accident, General Patrick said, if it were made on that account, it was unjustified.

"The army does not ask or intend to buy another larger lighter-than-air ship approaching the Roma's size," he added. He predicted, however, that lighter-than-air ships would be the great ocean carriers of the future. He disclosed confidentially plans of foreign nations in the development of lighter-than-air ships, and urged that the United States should not lag in that field.

New York, April 12.—Capture of another of the bandits sought for the $70,000 jewel robbery in the Albert R. Shattuck home in Washington Square, April 2, was announced at police headquarters tonight.

MAY NOT LOAN ARMS TO 'DRY' FORCES

Director Day's Request for Machine Guns and Armored Cars Probably Will Be Refused

Albany, April 12 — A section of the state military law, quoted today by Attorney General Charles D. Newton, in response to a query from New York city, was believed at the capitol to forbid the issuance of any of the state's military equipment to others than members of the state military organizations. The query to the attorney general was whether Adjutant General J. Leslie Kincaid had authority to lend machine guns and armored cars to Ralph A. Day, state prohibition director, for a campaign against rum smugglers on the Canadian border. The section of the law quoted by the attorney general also appears to vest in the governor alone the authority for the issuance of military equipment.

The section of the military law which the attorney general quoted reads like this.

"Subdivision 7, Section 7, Military Law:

"He (the adjutant general) shall issue such military and naval property as the governor shall direct and under his direction shall make purchase for that purpose. No military or naval property shall be issued to persons or organizations other than those belonging to the active militia, except to such portions of the reserve militia as may be called out by the governor."

When newspaper correspondents called the attention of the governor to the new aspect apparently given the case by the attorney general's reply, the governor made this reply:

"As you have observed, I am very busy with serious matters and I have until Saturday night to finish the serious matters. After that, I will talk, if I have time, about less serious things."

GOVERNOR VETOES CHIROPRACTIC BILL

In Sympathy With Its Purpose But Says It Contains Uncertainty and Ambiguity

Albany, April 12. — The bill which chiropractors told Governor Miller at a recent hearing would stop them from practicing or put them in jail, was vetoed today by the governor. A memorandum on the veto announced that the governor was in sympathy with the the general purpose of the bill, which was described as prescribing penalties and punishment and the method of prosecution for illegally practicing medicine.

In giving reasons for the veto, the governor said the "provisions for civil penalties and for criminal prosecution are so commingled as to create too much uncertainty and ambiguity for a criminal statute of such severity." The governor also said it was doubtful if the measure did not attempt to confer upon courts of special sessions jurisdiction to impose prison sentences of five years.

"Moreover," he added, "the severity of the punishment will tend to defeat the very purpose of the act, as it will make it even more difficult to obtain convictions."

TELLS POLICE HE IS GUILTY OF CRIME BROTHER PAYS FOR

Montreal, April 12.—Joseph Lorain today called at police headquarters and told the officer in charge that he was guilty of a criminal assault for which his brother Emile is serving a fifteen year sentence. He was sent to prison pending an inquiry into his confession.

Emile was sentenced July 9, 1920, after a girl had identified him as the man who dragged her 125 feet to a vacant lot and after pulling her over a barbed wire fence attacked her.

Corning, April 12. — Jesse Bassage, a farmer of Hornby, died at a local hospital today of the unusual disease of anthrax, his death being the first from this disease ever recorded in Steuben county. It was later determined that the cow died of anthrax, a disease common among cattle, but rare among men.

WORLD BANK CONFERENCE

Genoa Official Proposes This Method of Stabilizing European Situation

DISARMAMENT TALK

Lloyd George Said to Contemplate Suggesting Agreement on Land Armaments

(By The Associated Press)

Genoa, April 12. — The necessity of bringing about equilibrium in national budgets, if the European situation is to be stabilized, formed the most important subject of discussion at the meeting today of the sub-committee on finance of the economic conference, at which Sir Robert Stephenson-Horne, the chairman, proposed an international conference of the great banks issuing currency, including the American Reserve banks.

The commission decided to make the London experts' report the basis of its deliberations and to appoint another sub-committee to re-examine exchange, with a second sub-committee to study credits, the commission itself devoting its labors to the question of currency.

Dr. Andreas Hermes, the German minister of finance, created some commotion by alluding to the question of reparations. He declared that the Germans had examined the London report and were in accord on many points, but wished to emphasize that Germany would find extreme difficulty in establishing equilibrium in her budget while obliged to support heavy payments externally. Germany, he promised, will bring in practical suggestions later.

The report was current in conference circles that the German chancellor, Dr. Wirth, would return to Berlin within a few days, concerned over internal conditions in that country and apparently depressed over the situation at Genoa.

On the other hand, Christian Rakovsky, premier of Ukrainia, depicted the Russian financial situation in rosy colors, and seized the opportunity to allude to disarmament, which the Russians are contending should have a place on the agenda.

Talk of "Army Holiday."

Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain contemplates suggesting an agreement for limitation of land armaments in Europe for a definite period, according to an unverified report, before the adjournment of the present international conference.

"The army holiday," it is thought will be patterned after the "naval holiday" arranged at the Washington conference.

Disarmament continues to be the most discussed question among the delegates here, although barred from formal consideration after the initial tilt between the French and Russian delegates when M. Chitcherin, soviet foreign minister, endeavored to bring it before the conference.

The statement of Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, to the Associated Press yesterday, explaining why France cannot discuss disarmament at Genoa, will probably remain the basis of the French attitude on this question despite the attempts of the Russian delegation or other groups to raise the issue.

"This is a purely economic conference," said the French leader last night, again emphasizing France's position, "and we have simply got to stick to our agenda as America did at Washington; otherwise we will get nowhere."

Asked if France would be disposed to discuss disarmament at some later conference, M. Barthou replied:

"If I wanted to say the easy, pleasant thing, my answer would be yes, and yet what the real answer of France is, we don't know.

"Don't forget that we have before us a great army in Russia, and, while Germany certainly is not a menace at present, we have a menace in the potentially great German army of the future. You have perhaps observed the anodyne texture of the German chancellor's speech before the Genoa conference. We do not know what Germany will do, but I can say this—my latest official reports from Paris do not indicate that Germany is in a tractable spirit concerning the vital matters embodied in the Versailles treaty."

BUOYANT DAY ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Sales of About 1,650,000 Shares Constitute Record for Current Movement

New York, April 12. — Buoyancy best describes the tone of the stock market during today's early and intermediate stages, the later dealings being characterized by considerable irregularity. Sales of about 1,650,000 shares constituted a record for the current movement and the number of separate issues traded in probably established a precedent.

Lower money rates, cumulative indications of industrial and commercial betterment, and higher quotations for such basic commodities as oils, pig iron and finished iron and steel, were among the developments which continued to stimulate bullish sentiment and diminish the short interest.

The one discordant or pessimistic note was sounded by the coal strike, authorities referring to that situation as likely to become a factor in many lines of manufacture in the near future. Coal shares were dull, and rails as a whole contributed only nominally to the day's business. Mexican oils were sold on rumors of a disagreement between that government and American interests regarding export taxes, and steady profit-taking detracted from the strength of leading motors.

Gains of one to almost five points during the forenoon were made largely under the auspices of equipments, domestic oils, junior steels, leathers, paper specialties and shippings, tobaccos and chain store issues, Woolworth rising on the declaration of an extra dividend.

The only sharp reversal of the session came in the final hour, when Mexican Petroleum fell almost five points from its early best, and caused other leaders to react one to three points. The one striking exception was American Locomotive, which forged steadily ahead, closing at a gain of four points.

Liberty issues were the dominant features of an extensive trading in the bond market, practically all of that series, notably the 3½s, rising to par or better on transactions which involved single blocks of $1,000,000.

Final prices for this entire group showed gains, and in several instances closing quotations were at the day's highest quotations.

Almost 30 per cent of the total sales of all classes of bonds was constituted by Liberty and Victory issues.

For Raw Sore Throat

At the first sign of a raw, sore throat rub on a little Musterole with your fingers.

It goes right to the spot with a gentle tingle, loosens congestion, draws out soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use. 35 and 65 cents in jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.

AT OUR STORE
Your dynamite dollar— -is now worth $1.35

WE will sell you 135 to 140 sticks of Dumorite for the same money you now pay for 100 sticks of 40% dynamite.

Dumorite, the new Du Pont Farm Dynamite, has approximately the same strength as regular 40% dynamite and gives you equal work, stick for stick, under ordinary conditions. Thus Du Pont engineers have found a way to give you almost 1/3 more dynamite for your dollar.

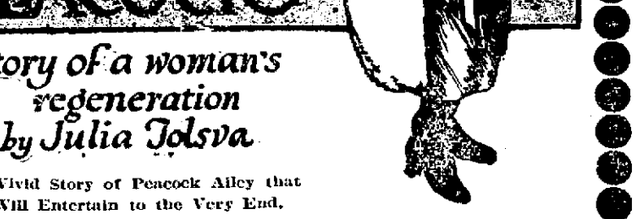

You won't get a "dynamite headache" from using Dumorite and it will not freeze.

Think—this year, with Dumorite, you can clear nearly 1/3 more acres of stump land at the same cost you paid last year for dynamite, or you can clear the same amount as in 1921, at a saving of approximately one-fourth.

Let Dumorite help you make 1922 the biggest land clearing year of all—and let us help you figure the cost of your season's blasting work. We know that we can save you about one-fourth—maybe more.

BLOOD TROUBLES VANISH

Old Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Eczema and Scrofula Are Best Treated Through the Blood.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the great foundation of health, says Dr. Southworth, and you're gone a long way toward ensuring freedom from Pimples, boils and other infected conditions.

There is nothing more disheartening than the knowledge that through carelessness and the follies or indiscretions of earlier years one has to drag through life with poisoned blood.

So many sufferers have been unable to find relief that they are almost ready to believe their case is hopeless.

To obtain relief the proper treatment must be resorted to, for very often the sufferer is liable to use harmful or absolutely worthless drugs, with the result that conditions become worse instead of better.

For over sixty years Dr. Southworth's Blood and Kidney Remedy has been reaching many of the worst kind of cases—cases that have utterly failed to respond to any other treatment.

People who have infected blood or Pimples, Rashes, Boils, Carbuncles, Eczema, or skin irritations should start to take this grand old medicine at once—quickly noticeable results should convince you of its merits.

All druggists can supply you. Signed—H. C. Southworth, M. D. Address—Dr. Southworth Medicine Co., 709 City Bank Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y. Advt.

SPECIALIZATION.

A statement recently made by a student of human psychology, to the effect that great machinery plants, like that of Henry Ford, which specialize in manufacture, so that one man, for example, does nothing year after year but sit at a lathe and manufacture a single sort of screw, tends to narrow the personal viewpoint, and make the worker a mere automaton, will be read with interest. Certainly there is something in it, and the worker, it must be admitted, cannot be the all-around workman for which an earlier age was distinguished. Still there are points of view which crass characterization does not consider.

While it is true that the present system of employment, particularly in large workshops, narrows rather, than widens the view, it is in large measur compensated for by the fact that the hours of employment have been much shortened, eight hours being the maximum in strictly mechanical lines, instead of ten or more, in an earlier time. Whether consciously or not, the change no doubt in large measure followed from single, intensive effort rather than of diversified occupation. As is well known, the latter serves in a measure to relieve mononony, while the former cannot fail to become tiresome. In fact, it is probable that Mr. Ford and his specialists, pursuing their investigations in a field where singleness of effort has been raised to the n-th power, had reached exactly this conclusion when the number of days' work in the week was lately reduced. There are probably few if any factories in the world where work is so intensive and so specialized as in the Ford establishment; and so probably home where such a shorter working week would be so desirable.

AIR LANES FOR TRAFFIC.

Long ago the course of ships on the ocean was very much as the captains or the owners willed, this principally in the days of sail vessels and before those of steamships. Development of speed and the increase of the number of vessels, however, ultimately made necessary the establishment of ocean lanes of travel eastward and westward across the Atlantic, and the danger of fatalities was in this way reduced to a minimum.

A recent collision of airplanes, one eastward and the other westward bound between London and Paris, emphasizes the necessity of the establishment of similar highways in the air. As yet, of course, while the number of planes is small, the danger of collisions is not great, but it will increase as the airships multiply in number, and the accident over France demonstrates that even now such casualities are not impossible.

There is a steadily increasing number of air ships in America, and if as yet the routes between New York and Chicago and other distant cities are not crowded, there is pretty definite assurance that eventually they will be. Under these circumstances it would appear that the general government, perhaps through the Interstate Commerce commission, should as definitely as possible determine the course which should be taken. Certainly there is no accident incident upon hazards of travel which can be more certainly and completely fatal than one which occurs when airships meet head-on thousands of feet above the solid earth.

PORTO RICO'S NEW GOVERNOR.

Republicans of Porto Rico are in Favor of the New Governor's Policies.

Many articles concerning the attitude of the Porto Ricans toward Governor Reily would lead the reader to believe that the majority of the Porto Ricans are greatly opposed to him and decidedly anti-American at heart. For this reason it is interesting to note that the Republicans on the island like the new governor and consider that he has filled his position to the best interests of the citizens. The opposing faction seems to be composed mostly of Unionists who make repeated attacks upon him purely from political motives

The following portion of a letter written to a resident of Oneonta by a young Porto Rican lady, a member of one of the finest families on the island, is enlightening.

"We like our new governor He is a Republican and has filled his position well, but the Unionists do not like him and they quarrel with him. The other day I attended a tea at the Palace and I liked Mrs. Reily. The Republicans like the governor and as we are American Republicans, we like him. My husband and I are 100% Americans."

Anthracite Shipments.

During the month of March 6,778,667 tons of anthracite coal were shipped from the Pennsylvania mines. This was 1,041,000 tons more than in March of the previous year. Of this amount 909,061 tons found market over the Delaware & Hudson lines, this being 72,000 tons more than in the corresponding month of 1921. The March record for shipments is one of the three highest in the record for the month since statistics of coal shipments have been kept.

The Best Year.

This year will supply markets to business men who will fight for them and work for labor which really seeks it. It will be the best business year since the war.—[New York Tribune.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The Vice President.

Mr. Coolidge is probably enjoying his office, and certainly making a record in it. No other occupant ever found while filling it so much interest attaching to his views, or so many opportunities for expressing them.

Take the matter of the cabinet He sits in that game by invitation, not as a listener only but also as an adviser. The President and the heads of the 10 departments of the government want to hear from him when questions of moment are under consideration. They meet twice a week, and while in session have much in hand.

The old joke about the vice presidency, describing it as a berth for a lazy and drowsy man, has lost its point. Mr. Harding, Mr. Coolidge and the people have found a good deal for the presiding officer of the Senate to do outside of his prescribed duties on Capitol Hill. He is kept awake and in action.—[Washington Star.

Moving of the Leviathan.

The Leviathan is putting to sea again, but only to go as far as Norfolk, where she is to be refitted It is a voyage that should have been made long ago. The great ship ought to be in commission now, the finest liner flying the American flag Has there not been too much delay in utilizing the ship that once flew the German flag? What has become of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, now the Mt. Vernon? Or the Kaiser Wilhelm II, now the Agamemnon? Both would be a welcome addition to the American passenger service to the American service this year.— [Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Costly Venture.

Only financial emergency could recommend in thrifty Greece the bill just introduced in the national assembly authorizing the government to raise a billion and a half drachmas by a forced loan. The measure is said to require every person in the kingdom at once to lend the treasury half the money in his possession.—[New York Sun.

New District Judges.

Pennsylvania would get two more district federal judges under a bill which the senate has passed by a vote of 44 to 21. Eight Democrats and 36 Republicans voted for the measure, and 13 Democrats and 8 Republicans voted against it, so that it cannot be regarded as a party measure.—[Philadelphia Record.

Country Doctors.

Dr. George De Schweinitz, of Philadelphia, the eminent specialist, who has been chosen president of the American Medical association, does well to emphasize before the Philadelphia County Medical society at the dinner in his honor, the need of procuring for rural districts the medical facilities available for those who dwell in cities.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

"Capitol" and "Capital."

If there is a "capitol district," it must be the part of Albany that surrounds the capitol. Anything including territory outside Albany would be a "capital district," that is, a region surrounding the capital city.—[Albany Journal.

Expedition.

It is stated in Washington that more than a dozen foreign nations are conducting a propaganda in the United States against the enactment of a protective tariff law. This is all the more reason why Congress should expedite legislation on this important subject.—[Scranton Republican

Her Youth.

One thing about the modern girl that causes her elderly critics to be resentful is her youth.— [Baltimore Sun.

Prophetic.

It looks as if there may have been something prophetic in the naming of Wrangell land.—[Springfield Republican.

Those Who Must Pay.

The great demand for government expenditures comes, strange as it may seem, from the people who are sooner or later called upon to pay the bills.—[Jamestown Post.

Protests Pardon of L. A. E. Gale

At a meeting of the Norwich post of the American Legion on Monday evening, attention was called to the case of Linn A. E. Gale, who is now serving a sentence of seven years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas It is reported that friends of Gale are trying to get a pardon for him, and it was the sense of the Legion meeting that Gale shoule serve his entire sentence.

It was voted to write both national and state officers of the Legion explaining the attitude of the local post in this matter. It was also voted to write Congressman Clarke, requesting that he do nothing in behalf of securing Gale a pardon.

—The Brotherhood class of the Elm Park church will hold a chicken pie supper in the church parlors on Friday evening.

—The Star has arranged to receive the results of the major league ball games early each evening and they will be bulletined at this office as soon as received.

—The Elks' Glee club is scheduled to give a concert at East Worcester on April 19 for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

—There was a large attendance of Elks at the regular meeting of the fraternity held last evening in B. of R. T. hall, the particular occasion being the installation of the officers recently elected. The announcement that the Fair held last week was a conspicuous success when viewed from any angle brought much applause.

—High water around the Albany station caused both D. & H. south bound trains to be over a half hour late last evening. It was necessary to run the trains from North Albany to Mechanicville and thence on the branch to Delanson where the Albany passengers, who had been transported there by trolley, were picked up.

—That the winter months have caused no lack of interest in things baseball in the city is evidenced by the number of fans who read with keen interest the results of the first major league games of the season bulletined last evening by The Star. The details of the game, which appear on the sporting page of The Star this morning, will be eagerly perused by devotees of the game, a characterization applying to a goodly percentage of the population of this city and surrounding territory.

ODD FELLOWS INVITED HERE

State Encampment of Patriachs Militant and State Cantonment May Be Held in Oneonta in 1923—Matter Discussed at Meeting of Grand Committee Yesterday — C. W. Joslyn of Hartwick Named as District Deputy Grand Master.

That Oneonta will in May, 1923, be hosts to the annual state encampment of Patriachs Militant is a strong possibility which Odd Fellows not only in this city but throughout the county as well are laboring to make an absolute certainty. W. C. Gurney of Binghamton, who will be grand chief patriarch of the order in 1923, was in the city yesterday in attendance at the meeting of the Otsego grand committee and while here conferred with the past grands of the county in regard to the state encampment. It is the custom to hold the encampment where the presiding officer designates and as Mr. Gurney, a former resident of the city and prominent in Odd Fellowship here for many years, desires that it be held in Oneonta there is a strong probability that it will be. The encampment would bring to the city representatives of every encampment in the state.

In connection with the state encampment it is the intention of Canton David Wilber of this city to extend an invitation to the state cantonment to hold their convention here in 1923 synchronous with that of the encampment. The state cantonment was held here some years ago and citizens will recall with pleasure the visit of the Odd Fellows at that time. The conventions of the two orders would bring well over 1,000 visitors to the city. Representatives present at the meeting yesterday were very enthusiastic over the matter and all pledged their hearty support to the movement to have the conventions held here.

The meeting yesterday was of the Otsego Grand committee of Odd Fellows, composed of all past noble grands in the county. About 30 were in attendance, representing most of the 12 lodges in the district. The principal business of the meeting was the choosing of a candidate for the office of district deputy grand master, George W. Joslyn, Hartwick lodge, being selected for the honor. Several other candidates were proposed and there was a warm fight for the berth. His name will be presented for confirmation at the next meeting of the grand lodge, to be held at Albany in August. C. A. Bunn of Hartwick was elected grand secretary and Clifford Brown of Hartwick grand treasurer.

The Past Officers' degree was conferred upon three past grands, W. C. Gurney of Binghamton, and Carre Rogers and A. C. Miller of this city.

Will Compete in Penn Relays.

Albert V. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Morris of this city and a junior at Hamilton college, has been selected as a member of the team to represent Hamilton at the famous Penn Relays, which will be held in Philadelphia, April 28 and 29. A large squad of competitors has been working out daily for several weeks on the indoor track of the Russell Sage Athletic building. The field was last week reduced to eight competitors and in the final heat, run Monday afternoon on the outdoor track, Mr. Morris came in second, thus assuring him a place on the team. Mr. Morris has done consistently good work in the middle distances ever since he entered Hamilton and is fully deserving of the position which he has won on the team which will represent Hamilton in the Penn relays, most prominent of Eastern collegiate track events.

"Syracuse Special" Arrives.

The 8:20 D. & H. train from the west last night might well have been dubbed the "Syracuse Special," as a number of students at Syracuse university arrived to spend the spring recess at their homes here. Among these were Morris and George Dickson, who are taking a course in business administration; Misses Bernice Goldstein and Ruth Volwider and Edwin Jahn. Their vacation will last one week.

Soldiers Hold Pork Dinner.

The members of Company G held a very enjoyable social session, featured by a pork dinner, at the armory last evening. Athletic sports and a song fest constituted the order of business, after justice had been done to the mess sergeant's offerings. Major F. M. H. Jackson, Lieut. D. W. McLaury and Ernest Damaschke, coach of the basketball team, were guests of honor.

NAME HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS

Board of Education Elects Instructors in English and in Physical Training.

At a meeting of the board of education of the Oneonta Public schools, held on Tuesday evening, new instructors in English and Physical training were elected to succeed Miss Mabel L. Hoyt and Miss Jane E. Merriam, whose resignations were regretfully accepted by the board. The new teachers are Miss Chloe E. DuMonde instructor in English; and Miss Lora M. Bell in Physical training.

Miss DuMonde is now instructor in English in the Greene High school, a position which she has held for the past three years. She is a graduate of the Adelphi college of Brooklyn, of which Frank D. Blodgett, formerly of the faculty of the Oneonta Sate Normal school, is president.

Miss Bell is a graduate of Thomas Normal Training school of Detroit, Mich., and her home is at Madisonville, Ky. She has had much successful experience in the work and in 1920-21 was state instructor in physical training for the New York State Education department, a position which later was abolished by the provisions of the amended school law.

Both the new teachers come with highest recommendations for experience and ability and will unquestionably give the best of service in the school to which they have been elected.

Asks Special City Election.

At the same meeting the board of education passed a resolution requesting the city council to call a special election to vote on an appropriation of $40,000 to be used for the erection of a new school building on or in the vicinity of River street. The matter will be considered at the meeting of the council next week Tuesday and will no doubt be approved. Three weeks notice of the election is required, and afterwards proposals for the building must be advertised for.

The delay caused by the necessary readvertisement of the special election will defer for a considerable time the commencement of the work, and while every effort will be made to expedite it, it is not probable that the new building will be ready for occupancy before next winter's holiday vacation.

ONEONTA MASONS AT UTICA

Plans Being Made for Large Delegation From Local Lodge at Dedication of Memorial Hospital on April 22 — Institution Has Cost Over $1,000,000.

That Oneonta Masonic lodge will be well represented at the dedication of the Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial hospital at the Masonic home at Utica on April 22 is indicated by plans now being made by officers of the lodge. No definite arrangements have as yet been made but it is expected that the trip will be made by automobile. Several parties have already been formed, and it is hoped that places can be found in members' cars for all who desire to go.

Delegations from the entire 922 lodges in the state will take part in the ceremonies, which will be epochal in the history of Free Masonry in New York state. The hospital is a magnificent four story building erected at a cost of over $1,000,000, every cent of which was contributed by Masons, who have also contributed every article of furniture and piece of equipment. The hospital is intended as a memorial to the 25,000 New York state Masons in the service of their country during the World war. It will be open to all members of the fraternity and their families in the state.

It is expected that fully 100,000 Masons will be in attendance at the dedication exercises, which will include a huge parade.

Preferred to Supervise.

The other day an Oneontan having a small job requiring help at his residence approached about 40 men standing about the new theatre site, looking on at the work, whose appearances indicated that they might not be adverse to earning a few dollars and offered them the work. Not one of them was interested, evidently preferring to give their unsolicited advice to the manner in which the excavation there should be made without renumeration than to labor for money. Evidently times are not so hard in this city, as one might believe.

At the Parshall Hospital.

Daniel Dibble of East Oneonta was operated on Wednesday morning for the relief of hernia, and it is expected that he wil make a speedy recovery.

Fred Peck of Milford Center is reported as doing nicely.

Miss Hazel McPherson, who was operated on two weeks ago for appendicitis, has fully recovered and has returned to her home at Sharon Springs.

White Rose Sewing Circle Meets.

A large number of members of the White Rose Sewing circle enjoyed to the full the meeting held Yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Lockwood, 32 Grand street. Following the business session, the afternoon was spent with games and music and refreshments were served.

LOCOMOTIVE TIPS OVER

No One Injured in Accident Near Schenectady—Storm Causes Score of Washouts on D. & H.

Nearly a score of washouts, causing in one case the derailment of two locomotives, was the toll of damage done by the severe storm of Tuesday evening to the Delaware and Hudson lines. The derailment of the locomotives might easily have proven serious, as one engine tipped over on its side, but fortunately no one was injured. The accident occurred to the two engines pulling an extra through freight just north of South Schenectady, at about 10 p. m. The heavy rains had softened the ground, loosening the fastenings of several ties, with the result that they sagged under the weight of the heavy locomotives. The first engine, in charge of Flurtie Judd of this city, toppled over on its side, pulling one pair of drivers on the other engine from the track. The south track was blocked for about four hours while wrecking crews from Colonie and Oneonta labored to repair the damage.

Small landslides and washouts between Schenevus and East Worcester, Delanson and Mechanicville and at the Tunnel caused much work for the track gangs, but resulted in little damage. Traffic was held up pretty generally, however, and several crews marked out of the Oneonta yards late last evening failed to make their runs.

MRS. SARAH A. COUSE DEAD

Passes Away at Her Home at Nine O'clock Last Evening, After a Long Illness — Woman Highly Esteemed and Active in Main Street Baptist Church Affairs.

Mrs. Sarah A. Couse, widow of the late William H. Couse and one of the oldest and most respected residents of the city, passed away at her residence at 458 Main street at 9 o'clock last evening, following a long illness. She had suffered for five years with a cancer and it was the primal cause of her demise. Owing to the lateness of the hour at which she passed away, no funeral arrangements were made last evening. They will, however, be completed today and will be announced in The Star of Friday.

The maiden name of the deceased was Sarah A. Thayer, and she was the daughter of the late David and Desire Thayer. Born near Bainbridge Sept. 10, 1842, she was first united in marriage with Nathan Brownell, and following his death she married Mr. Couse Nov. 9, 1870. For the half century and more elapsing she has been a resident of Oneonta and most of the time at the residence where she passed away.

She is survived by an adopted daughter, Mrs. Zillah VanCleft, and by one brother, Thayer, of Morgan avenue, the only surviving member of her father's family and the only near blood relative surviving.

Mrs. Couse was a devoted member of the Main Street Baptist church and for 27 years she had been the treasurer of the Ladies' circle of that church, performing the duties so acceptably that none other was considered at each recurrent election. She was also active in the Loyal Helpers' class of the Sunday school of that church and had long been one of the most zealous and useful members of that church, in which she will be greatly missed. She was also keenly interested in the temperance cause and labored untiringly in that cause, and was prominent in the work of the Oneonta W. C. T. U. She was a woman much respected by her large circle of friends and acquaintances, especially among the older generation.

DEATHS

John Brand.

John Brand, a farmer well-known to residents of Otego and vicinity, passed away at his home on the Otego road at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Brand had been in ill health over a year and on August 20 was stricken to his bed. From that time he failed steadily until his death on April 11. He suffered from a complication of diseases due to old age.

Mr. Brand was the son of Abner and Maria Brand, and was born at Maryland, July 16, 1844. The family moved to the town of Otego when he was about fifteen years of age. On July 4, 1870, he was married to Mary E. Kimball of Milford, who survives him. He was the father of two children, one of whom died in infancy, the other being the late Mrs. E. E. Farrell. Mr. Brand had resided in Otego nearly his whole life, and will be gratefully remembered by acquaintances and neighbors for his willingness to help those in trouble and the good word he had for everyone who met him.

He was a member of the Knights of Labor and a charter member of the local order of the Red Men of America. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Otego.

He is survived by the wife above named and by several cousins who reside in this vicinity.

The funeral will be held from his late home on the Otego road, Friday, at 1 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. Henry T. Scholl officiating. Interment will be at Milford Center.

Funeral of Conrad Yagel.

The funeral of Conrad Yagel, who died Saturday at his home in this city, was held from his late residence at 27 Fairview street, Tuesday at 2 o'clock. The service was conducted by the Rev. Philip M. Luther, pastor of the English Lutheran church of the Atonement. The pastor's address was confined to a brief account of the life and characte of the deceased. Only the relatives and a few invited friends were present.

Interment was in the family plot at Riverside cemetery and the services at the grave were in charge of the Oneonta lodge of the Masonic fraternity, of which Mr. Yagel was a life member.

The bearers were M. C. Hemstreet, M. G. Keenan, Charles J. Beams and U. A. Ferguson. Notwithstanding the fact that the family had requested that no floral offerings be sent, there was a profusion of elaborate floral pieces, for which thanks are due to the local Masonic lodge and numerous friends

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT GARDEN

Early Efforts Better Directed to Starting Plants Indoors—How to Tell When Soil is Ready.

Ithaca, April 12.—It is never too early to make such garden reparations as getting the tools ready and the spade sharpened up, but the actual working of the soil should not be rushed too much, according to the gardners at the state agricultural college here. Ground worked too early, if at all clayey, gets into hard lumps which may bother all summer.

Experienced gardners know about when to begin, but the specialists suggest a rough "rule o' thumb" which may interest amateurs. If a sticky ball forms when earth is squeezed in the hand and the pressure is released, the ground is not yet ready to work. If, however, the lump falls to pieces when it is tapped lightly, nature is ready for gardners. Ground that has been plowed or spaded in the the fall is ready to work earlier in the spring than similar soil which wasn't so prepared, and of course light sandy soils can be worked earlier than the heavier ones.

Start Early in the House

Indoor gardening, on the other hand, can be started early. In this locality the seeds of tomato plants are sown in the house early in April in order that the plants may be set out the last week in May. Dates of planting, however, vary greatly over the state.

Tomato varieties recommended by the college are Bonny Best and Clark's Jewel. Earliana is earlier than either of these but is otherwise less desirable. Seeds are planted about eight or ten to an inch in rows two inches apart and covered with a quarter of an inch of soil. Soil need not be especially fertile but should be light and loose. A good soil is satisfactory; sifted coal ashes will help to lighten it if it is sticky.

Plants grow best in a wooden box with holes in the bottom for drainage, placed in a sunny window in good living room temperature. The soil is kept moist but not muddy. Since the air is dry in most living rooms, the box is often covered with paper to prevent evaporation, but the paper must be removed promptly when the first seedlings break through.

SPRING TREE PLANTING

Suggestions Made by New York State College of Forestry.

Spring is the best time to plant forest trees as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Trees from two to four years old should be unpacked, the roots dipped in muddy water the consistency of soup, and heeled in near the place to be planted as soon as received from the nurseries.

"Heeling in" consists of digging a trench 10 inches deep and placing the roots therein, covering them with fresh earth which is packed firmly and kept moist by watering daily. Trees may be left in the trench for a week, or during the period of planting, but should be set in their permanent places as soon as possible.

Two persons constitute a planting crew, one to make the holes with a mattock and the other to follow closely with the trees, which are carried in a pail. It is advisable to have three or four inches of soil and water in the bottom of the pail to keep the roots moist. A few minutes exposure of the roots to the sun or wind may kill the tree.

The usual spacing is six feet apart each way. The hole should be deep and wide enough to allow the roots to lie in a normal position. The soil that is dug up should be left in a heap by the side of the hole convenient for the planter.

The planter places the tree in the hole, packs the loose soil about the roots, and when all except the sod is replaced, he firms it with the foot, taking care not to injure the outside tissue. The roots should be placed slightly deeper than they were in the nursery to allow for the loose ground to settle, but the final position should be as in the nursery. This is especially important when planting spruce. The entire tree should be made firm enough to resist loosening action of the wind, and should stand erect.

Three or four year transplants are recommended for evergreens; one year old seedlings for locusts and ash; two year seedlings for oak and larch. Poplar is easily grown from cuttings, which should be rooted for one year before being planted on their permanent site.

Discriminating tastes demand discriminating beverages. Biwa tea fills every requirement. Biwa means Best. Advt 1-w.

DOES LAUNDRY WORK AND HOUSEWORK TOO

Surprised to Find Herself Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass.—"I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do me much good, so one day after talking with a friend who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also. I find that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my housework, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others."—Mrs. BLANCHE SILVIA, 69 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

It's the same story—one friend telling another of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE WAY I WASH MY CLOTHES

I am old-fashioned enough to believe that while better household machinery and materials have been invented than our grandmothers had, nothing equals their way of doing things.

That is why I always soak my clothes. After sorting them I soak them in Rinso, using enough to make a good suds that will stand up even after the clothes are put in. I let them soak for an hour—or longer if I am busy about other things—for I have discovered that Rinso won't injure them in the least, yet it soaks out more dirt than any other soap.

Then I rinse them. The first rinse water is terribly dirty but every bit of dirt that is soaked out means that much less rubbing. I only rub neckbands, and the like. Every three or four weeks I boil my white things—except flannels, of course—using enough Rinso to get a mild suds.

FATE REVOLVING ABOUT OLD MARRIAGE LICENSE

Bureau and Clergyman Did Not Agree About the Ancient Date.

Fate revolving around a marriage license issued in 1912, worked its devious way for ten years with Daniel O. Yazzy and Miss Lou Bradbury, both of Detroit, when Daniel, after a stormy voyage on the sea of matrimony, through the divorce court and back to "double harness," remarried the first choice of his heart here.

Daniel and Lou were married in the early 1900's, but quarreled and were divorced. The couple were sweethearts from school days in Indiana and, as they say now, "their quarrel was all about nothing."

Then Daniel met another "love" and led her to the altar, but within a few years he was back in the divorce court again.

In 1912 Daniel met Lou again and began to court his former first wife. Things approached a stage where he thought it advisable to have a marriage license handy, and he secured one, but Lou proved coy and refused to take "the chance." And so for the last ten years Daniel has been trying to persuade Lou he was the "right man."

He succeeded and the couple went before a minister who agreed to remarry them, but when he took a look at the license dated 1912 he told them to get a new one. The license bureau held though that with a new envelop to replace the time-worn wrapper, it was as good as new and the minister would have to be satisfied with a 1912 date.

HOME-GROWN EASTER LILIES

Experiments Made by the United States Department of Agriculture Have Been Successful.

When it first became known that experiments in raising Easter lilies from seed were being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, few florists were prepared to believe that the undertaking possessed any commercial value beyond the possibilities of producing new hybrids. The results of these experiments, which have now been carried on for four years, indicate, the department specialists believe, that this country can develop an important industry.

On the Arlington experimental farm, which is just across the Potomac river from Washington, department specialists produce the lily seeds in greenhouses by artificial pollination. These seed are planted about January 1, pricked out into small pots, and in May the young plants are set in the open ground. They develop rapidly, and by July or August some of the plants reach sufficient size to bear blooms. In October or November the plants are lifted, potted, and removed to the greenhouse. Without undue forcing the plants will come into full bloom the following February to April—15 months after the seed has been planted. Those plants which bloom in July or August and from which the bloom stalk has been cut may send out two or three stalks and can be forced to bloom again by Easter.

Many commercial growers are much interested in the work which is being conducted on the Arlington farm, and officials of the department believe that it will not be long until an industry will be developed in this country which will make lily growers here independent of any foreign supply of bulbs.

VANITY CASE A WEAPON

Girl Hits Holdup Man With It and He Shoots Himself.

A woman's vanity case earned its right to be classed as a weapon of defense when dexterous use of one by Miss Millie Congdon of Stockton, Cal., caused a bandit to shoot himself in the leg.

The bandit, Frank Lynons, attempted to hold up Miss Congdon and Edward Epsten, with whom she was riding in an automobile. Lynons and another bandit boarded the machine when a tire blew out. Epsten was ordered to drive to a secluded spot.

Miss Congdon beat off the second robber, standing on the running board, with her vanity case. She then brought it down on the wrist of Lynons, who pointed his pistol at her. The weapon was discharged and the bullet entered his leg. He was overpowered by Epsten.

Doggie's "Thumbs."

The tiny claws on the inside of a dog's leg are all that remain of his thumbs and big toes. You will notice that there are only four real toes on each foot. It is usual to remove them whilst puppies are quite small, for if they are left the dog is apt to tear them when he burrows. Many dogs are born without them.

Aristotle in Error.

Before anything was known about the laws of gravitation, it was commonly believed, on the authority of Aristotle, that every body had a "natural" place, and that its normal state was one of rest in that place. Thus a stone was supposed to sink in water because its natural place was at the bottom of the water.

"Egg Romance" Cracks; Husband "Hard Boiled"

Frank Olds, of Everton, Mo., wrote his name on an egg and requested the buyer to write to him. It was shipped to a cold storage house in Chicago, and later found its way to a restaurant, where it was boiled and sold to a romantic maiden. She wrote to "the man on the egg," and he replied. More correspondence, and finally they were married.

Now Mrs. Olds is suing for divorce. In her bill she charges her husband with being "hard boiled," a gambler, and a small town sport. She wants to cast him out of the nest.

CLAIMS VAGRANCY TROPHY

Man at Lynn, Mass., Is Sentenced for Fiftieth Time.

Arthur P. Wetherbee claims the championship of being the "vag," so far as appearance in the District court in Lynn, Mass., is concerned.

Three times during one week he had applied to police headquarters for lodging and then Judge Ralph W. Reeves sentenced him to two months in the house of correction. "It is cold weather and I would like a place to sleep," said Weatherbee. "I have not been able to get any work."

Judge Reeves said: "I do not think that you would work if you had the opportunity. I will give you a chance to work in the house of correction and you may begin today your fiftieth commitment service as a vagrant."

WILD CAT INVASION SERIOUS

Animals Too Cunning to Be Caught in Steel Traps.

Wildcats have invaded the poultry districts of Whidby Island, Wash., in such numbers as to endanger the industry.

Ranchers have resorted to the unusual method of trapping the chicken eating pests by baiting large halibut hooks with meat and hanging them from branches of trees near the ranches. The wildcats leap for the meat, either becoming hooked in the mouth or by one foot.

They are too cunning to step in the common open-jaw steel trap, so this expedient has proved the one method by which hundreds have been caught. The pelts are sold to Seattle fur buyers who ship them east under the guise of lynx cats.

When "No" Is Good Sometimes Isn't It Better At All Times?

A great many people have learned to say "No" to tea or coffee at noon and at night—learned it at the cost of jumping nerves and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of others who passed through that stage have learned to say "No" to tea and coffee all the time, and have found a most satisfactory "Yes" in Postum.

Postum's full, rich flavor delights the taste and meets all the demands for a hot, mealtime drink, and it contains no element that can harm anybody. Even little children may share in the delights of a hot cup of Postum with any meal.

Whether or not the thein in tea or the caffeine in coffee has begun to serve warnings on you, you can profit by the experience of others and by the information which any doctor can give you—and find charm without harm in Postum.

Suppose you make the test for ten days, with well-made Postum, and compare the "feel" with your former experience with tea and coffee.

Your grocer sells both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

"MOST PATIENT BRIDEGROOM" PLANS ITALIAN HONEYMOON

ondon, April 10.—Allister McCor-k is going ahead with plans for oneymoon in Italy with Mary Lan- Baker.

The world's most patient bride-om"—Miss Baker has postponed wedding four times, once when the sts were assembled at the church Chicago—said today he expects s Baker to sail from America for gland soon.

he last announcement from the erican side was that she would April 11.

feCormick is living with his broth- E. H. McCormick, in a charming English cottage 25 miles from don.

We expect to marry some place ondon," he said. "And we expect go to Italy on our honeymoon trip. sibly we will tour Switzerland, nce and England."

When asked to answer the question that two continents have been asking, "Why did Miss Baker postpone the marriage so many times?" McCormivk replied:

"There has been no misunderstanding and no quarrel. She put off the marriage simply because of her delicate health."

This agrees with the statement Miss Baker made on her way from California, where she has been resting, to Chicago and New York to take the Aquitania for England. She told a friend that the many social activities which she engaged in previous to the date on which she disappointed the assembled wedding guests, caused her complete collapse that morning so that she was unconscious for hours.

When Will There Be A Disarmament of Dining Tables?

Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hostilities with the stomach!

Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion!

The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting.

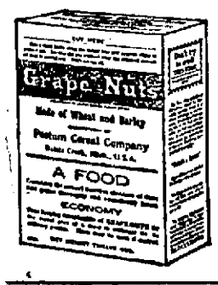

Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced and highly-seasoned food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach.

Grape-Nuts makes a friend of the taste and an ally of the stomach.

There's a charm and satisfaction to this delicious food which prompts appetite to say, "There's a meal!" and digestion to answer, "Thank goodness, here's peace at last!"

Grape-Nuts is the perfected nutriment of wheat and malted barley—sweet, crisp, and wonderfully nourishing. It digests quickly, and provides the necessary elements, including the vital mineral salts, for body, nerve and brain.

Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today, and let a delighted taste pass a treaty of peace along to an enthusiastic digestion and assimilation.

ELECTROMAGNETIC INDUCTION.

If a circuit containing a coil of wire is placed so that the coil is in close proximity to a coil in a second circuit we may refer to the first coil as the "primary" and the second as the "secondary." If an electric current flows in either circuit it will, of course, flow through the coil in the circuit. An alternating electric current is one which alternately increases and decreases in strength and reverses its direction of flow. We are just now principally interested in the fact that the current strength does alternately increase and decrease. Suppose that such a current flows in the primary coil. The magnetic field surrounding that coil increases and decreases with the current strength. That is, it expands and contracts periodically with the increases and decreases. In expanding and contracting the magnetic field cuts across the turns of wire in the secondary coil. Due to expansion and contraction, the field which surrounds the secondary coil is constantly varying, and an electromotive force will be created in it by "electromagnetic induction." If the coil is in a closed circuit an electric current will be forced to flow because of this electromotive force or pressure. The current in the secondary coil and circuit is said to be "induced" by the alternating current flowing in the primary coil and circuit. If the number of turns of wire in the secondary coil is greater than the number of turns in the primary coil, the voltage (electromotive force) in the secondary is greater than that in the primary, and we have what is known as a "step-up transformer." Such transformers are in daily use in radio work, as well as electric power work. If the secondary turns are fewer than the primary turns, we have a "step-down transformer," and the secondary voltage is lower than the primary.

The interesting thing is that, by electromagnetic induction, a current can be forced to flow in a secondary circuit. Also, that if the source of power is an alternating current we can either step the voltage up or down at will by using a suitably constructed transformer. It quite often happens that an alternating current at 15,000 to 20,000 volts is desired in a radio circuit. A generator to furnish this high electromotive force would be impractical, so an alternating current is fed into the primary of a transformer at, say, a pressure of 110 volts and produces a pressure of the desired high voltage in the transformer secondary.

In the case of an alternating current transformer it is quite customary to wind the primary around an iron core and to wind the secondary over the primary. An insulating tube or layer of insulating material is used to separate the primary from the secondary winding.

WOMAN IS TRAPPER

South Dakota Woman Makes $15 as Result of First Day's Efforts.

Trapping is the principal activity in the section around De Smet, S. D., since the opening of the season and a large number of men and several women are back attending trap lines at Lakes Henry and Thompson and Spirit Lake.

Rodney Brant was the first trapper to bring in any great amount of furs, his returns from the first ten days of the season nettings him more than $100. The Cummins brothers and Frank and Henry Miller also have made big catches.

At least one woman is active in trapping, Mrs. Elmer Colwell bringing in nine rat hides, worth nearly $15, as the result of her first day's trapping in the sloughs near here.

"CHALDEAN CHRISTIAN" FRAUD FOUND IN PARIS

Cunning Scheme Worked, It Is Asserted, Mainly in the United States.

The police of Paris have learned not to be surprised at anything, but it is not every day that they are called upon to investigate a case in which Chaldean priests figure, and this case, involving false ecclesiastics from Lower Mesopotamia, has ramifications in America.

A man calling himself a Chaldean priest called on the rector of the American church in Avenue George V, and asked for a subscription to help on the work of protecting persecuted Chaldean Christians. The rector wished to be rather more certain of his visitor's identity, but when the latter showed him letters signed by eminent American clergymen his suspicions were dispelled and he gave the man a subscription.

A few days afterward an individual who stated that he was a Catholic priest called on the rector and declared that the Chaldean was obtaining money fraudulently. The matter was placed in the hands of the police, who were not altogether satisfied with the statements of the self-styled Catholic priest, and when they arrested the Chaldean they confronted the two men.

An amusing scene followed, in the course of which it transpired that both men were Chaldeans and both had for years been engaged in a widespread fraud, then co-operation ending in one denouncing the other because he owed him some 2,000 francs.

There were many other men, all apparently Syrians or Chaldeans, engaged in the scheme. They worked in pairs, mainly in the United States, and in order to gain the confidence of their victims they obtained letters from prominent clergymen on any subject, afterward carefully erasing by a special process the whole of the letter except the signature. They then rewrote the letters to suit their own ends, and the authenticity of the recommendations was seldom questioned, as it was obvious that the signatures were genuine.

On With Dance---Or Off?

Clergymen Debate Use of "Eurhythmic Ritual" in Church

New York, April 11.—On with the ance! Or off with it? Barefoot girls dance on a stage built before the sanctuary of an old New York church while incense burns and three blue spotlights play on them. This is an annual "Eurhythmic Ritual" arranged by the pastor. His action has aroused considerable adverse comment among the clergy of New York. In the following articles, written especially for NEA Service, he explains his idea, while one of his strongest opponents attacks it.

Barefoot, Bobbed-Hair Girl who Danced in the "Eurhythmic Ritual" in Church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bowerie; At the Left, Dr. J. F. Norris, The Texas Tornado, who Opposes such Dances, and at the Right, Dr. W. N. Guthrie, Pastor of the Church, Who Gives his Reason for Using the Dance in Religious Services.

FOR

BY DR. W. N. GUTHRIE,

Rector, Church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, New York.

The use of the dance in a religious service startles. But why not the dance, if any of the other arts? The public now accepts music; to some extent, decoration and the plastic arts. It is beginning to see that if drama at Oberammergau can vividly present Christ, it can be of use in our churches.

Why not, then the dance?

At St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwrie, we have developed a technique by which we engage the interest of a considerable number of the unchurched. At a poetry symposium, the congregation is largely made up of poets. When drama is brought into the service, the church is jammed with actors.

Why not the dance?

Of all the arts it has been the most debased in the past three centuries. The efforts at its revival have been conducted in a hostile world and have been largely nullified. It is not a question now of whether the artistic dance shall be or not. It is a question of what it will be.

The dance must be either a pathway to Heaven or a pathway to Hell.

It is not, then, good strategy to restore to the art of the dance its religious function at least, in one place, once a year? This is what we are doing on the Feast of Annunciation at St. Mark's.

Our Eurhythmic Ritual is performed as a solemn celebration of pure, holy motherhood.

AGAINST

BY DR. J. F. NORRIS,

"Texas Tornado," Conducting Revival Services in New York.

Off with the dance.

The gospel has plenty of power to draw a congregation without devising a side show to go with it.

Several years ago I visited a lunatic asylum in Texas. I noticed that the floor was hard wood, waxed and slick as glass. I asked the warden why. He explained that the only diversion that the lunatics indulged in that could cause them to forget their troubles was the dance.

Ever since then I have been very chartible toward all dancing.

But dancing in a church is a revival of pagan practice.

If the church of today should plant itself squarely and firmly on the whole Bible, with nothing added to it and nothing taken from it, it would not have to resort to side entertainments of questionable character.

Dancing is the agency of the devil.

It takes no prophet to see where we are drifting when leading women smoke cigarets and attend prize fights one day and give dances in the churches the next.

If the church people of this country do not wake up to the perils of the times in which we are living, it will not be long until vice will eat the heart out of this republic.

The biggest issue of this hour is whether or not our churches shall purge themselves from the leaven of this world.

A VETERAN WITH D. & H. CO.

Delaware & Hudson News Sheet Pays Deserved Tribute to George Ellis of Oneonta—Over Fifty-Four Years an Employe.

A recent issue of the News Sheet, issued semi-monthly by the Delaware & Hudson company for circulation among its employes contains the following article, which will be read with interest by the many friends of George W. Ellis of this city, who in addition to his long period of service with the company, has long represented the citizens of the third Oneonta district upon the county board of supervisors:

Real men—men of brawn, steady nerve and quick of thought and action as of to-day—were the railroad men of yesterday, says the News Sheet. And their trials and tribulations, too, were much like those of today for the railroad man is wont to fret and chafe under the iron grip of a fascination peculiar to life on the "iron road." Yet they survived as do men in no other vocation, some of them to recall their experiences over a period of a half century or more.

Such a man is George Ellis, a veteran Delaware and Hudson employee, who lives at 9 Ann street, Oneonta, N. Y. Except for a handicap resulting from injuries suffered in the service, Mr. Ellis is apparently a robust man still, with a keen memory of life on the railroad of fifty-four years and ten months. Mr. Ellis was pensioned by the Delaware and Hudson Company September 1, 1921.

Some time as you stand by and gaze at the long freight trains of today, drawn by ponderous locomotives, wending their way through the countryside, think of the days when trains of 25 or 30 cars of capacities of from six to fifteen tons were being were being hauled over the same route under difficulties as great, and perhaps, greater, than those that confront the crews of today.

Try and picture a train drawn by a puny locomotive of the wood burner type whose water supply it was necessary to replenish every few miles; think of the members of the crew tugging and wrestling with the antiquated two-link and three-link connections and the crooked link—all made necessary by cars of broad gauge and narrow gauge being placed in the same train and of the days of the wooden brake shoe nailed to a wooden brake head. Think, too, of a day when to "set a car out" with a hot journal was the equivalent of going to the office and getting your "time." Think, also, of a time when a conductor applied to his superintendent for a set of cushions for his caboose and was told in reply that the caboose was not to ride in but rather to carry tools in, and when the equipment of a caboose aggregated nearer two tons than the light equipment made necessary by modern day appliances.

If you can imagine part or even all of the above, you will have a mind's picture of railroading in the days when Mr. Ellis began work. Born in Cherry Valley, August 1, 1850, the son of William Ellis, a pioneer stage driver, it was very natural that he (the son) should follow a similar life, but under the newer conditions of the times. Mr. Ellis began work as a laborer on a work train then stationed at East Worcester, November 18, 1866. East Worcester was then the southern terminal of the main line to Albany and there two of the company's locomotives "tied up" in a barn built for that purpose.

The next February Mr. Ellis took a position on the road as a trainman and the first day in his new work he lost the index finger of his left hand, while making a coupling with the old link and pin at Richmondville. In June, 1871, he was advanced to the position of conductor, for which service he was paid $65 a month, and served in that capacity until December, 1877, when he was made yardmaster in the Kenwood yards, Albany. The link and pin took another toll of fingers from Mr. Ellis in 1879, he losing three of the digits from his right hand in October of that year, and in 1885 he suffered injuries which incapacitated him for train service. From the time of his recovery to the date of his retirement, Mr. Ellis served faithfully as flagman and watchman for the police and maintenance of way departments.

Twelve locomotives constituted the motive power equipment on the road when Mr. Ellis began work and the supply of freight cars was so small as to make it necessary for shippers to load cars left at way stations over night, so that they could be picked up the day following. The wooden brake shoe in many respects was better than those of today—in dry weather, Mr. Ellis declares, but in rainy periods and when snow was the rule, they were nearly useless. In Mr. Ellis' day, conductors copied their train orders from a copy furnished by the telegrapher, and the engineers signed with them, leaving a copy of the transcript in the office. Extra trains then were called "Wild Cats" and in conclusion to other instructions train orders usually read "Keep a good lookout ahead and behind."

Mr. Ellis vividly recalls the Erie war in 1869, when the Gould interests which controlled the Erie lines tried by force to wrest the new road between Albany and Binghamton from its owners. He was a member of the crew that took a train of 12 coaches, loaded with men armed with pick handles and similar weapons, out of Albany and clashed with the invading forces at the northerly mouth of the tunnel, about fifteen miles beyond Binghamton, on the present Susquehanna division. They drove the Gould forces back and then barricaded the tunnel by derailing an empty stock car about midway in the tube. Mr. Ellis also was present at a no less lively and exciting encounter in the old general office building in Madison avenue, Albany, when an attempt was made to steal the books of the company, which is now the Delaware and Hudson company. At that time, as previously, the Gould plans were frustrated.

Mr. Ellis is highly esteemed by his acquaintances and friends, and in conjunction with his duties as a railroad man has served his city creditably in public office for many years. He is a man of genial disposition and is heartily welcomed wherever he goes.

LOOSE TONGUE HIS DOWNFALL

John Yiswick Mistakes Railroad Detective for Hobo and Tells How He Felled an Officer in Scranton —Is Being Held in Custody Here

John Yiswick might be a free man today if he hadn't taken a D. & H. detective for a fellow hobo and related to him how he hit a "bull" at Scranton over the head with a piece of iron pipe when the officer tried to arrest him for illegal train riding Tuesday night. As it is Yiswick is held here on a technical charge of vagrancy and may find himself accused of a more serious crime in city court this morning.

Early Wednesday morning a D. & H. officer in the yards was accosted by a stranger who asked him the way to Oneonta. The officer later met the man in a restaurant and the latter mistaking the detective for a brother knight of the road, related the Scranton story. Later in the morning Officer Terrell, who had been notified of the happening, took Yiswick into custody when he found him loitering about the streets He was arraigned before Judge Huntington and plead guilty to the vagrancy charge. The judge reserved decision until this morning so that the case might be fully investiagted.

Last evening Chief Horton received word from Scranton that an Erie detective had been knocked down by a train rider the preceding evening and it apepars to local officials that Yiswick was the man who did the the trick. He claims Hazelton, Pa., as his home and states that he was on his way to Syracuse to seek employment. He told Judge Huntington that he had been arrested five times previously during his young life—he is but 21—and had served a year in a reformatory for running away from home. He is a bit hazy as to the exact nature of the crimes he has committed in the past.

FUNERAL OF W. H. WILLIAMS.

Obsequies Yesterday of Esteemed Citizen Largely Attended.

The funeral of William H. Williams was held from his late home, 457 Main street, at 2 p. m. yesterday and, despite the rainy weather which prevailed, the house was well filled with sorrowing relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. B. M. Johns of the First Methodist church of this city and Rev. W. C. Dodge of Unadilla officiated at the house and Rev. L. C. Denney of St. James' church was in charge of the services at the grave. Interment was made in the family plot in the Plains cemetery, the bearers being R. J. Torrey, B. J. Dickinson, Fred A. Murdock, Charles Wells, M. J. Dibble and C. E. Hanes.

Two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Abide With Me," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," were read. There was a profusion of beautiful floral pieces from this city and surrounding villages, conspicuous among them being set pieces from the East Sidney M. E. church, Butchers of city, and St. James' guild.

Those in attendance from out of the city included John Tregurtha, Schenectady; James H. Tregurtha, Newark, N. J.; D. W. Tregurtha, Green Island; Charles Wells and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Van Kleck, East Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Reeves and Mrs. Leo Gardner, Otego; Judge L. F. Raymond, Franklin.

In the obituary notice in Monday's Star omission was made by inadvertence of a surviving sister, Miss Grace Williams of Mullion, England.

Home Missionary Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the church parlors. A most interesting and instructive program had been prepared. The topic to be discussed was "Home Missionary Schools in the South." A most comprehensive account was given of the work being done by the Home Missionary schools among the mountain whites of the south. Mrs. Fitch, accompanied by Jerry Wilson, sang a solo entitled, "The Wind in the Chimney." Mrs. Parker entertained the members of the society with a detailed account of her visit to Ellis Island, presenting a vivid picture of the work being done by the Home Missionary workers for the immigrants just landed on our shores. Both the physical and moral aspect of this work with the foreigner within our gates was outlined, and the story was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience. At 5:30 an appetizing supper was served by the committee in charge of refreshments. At the close of the meeting the Lenten offering was taken, which amounted to the goodly sum of $30.

Condition of Robert Cash.

Robert Cash of West Oneonta, who sustained a severe fracture of the left leg when his car crashed into a freight train at the Rose avenue crossing Sunday afternoon, was reported to be resting comfortably at the Fox Memorial hospital last evening. It is hoped that the limb may be saved.

Christening on Sunday.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ellison of Albany will be christened on East Sunday in the Episcopal church in this city.

STAMFORD VILLAGE AROUSED.

Gives Evidence That It Has No Rip VanWinkle Tendencies.

The following from a recent issue of the Stamford Mirror-Recorder will interest the baseball fans of this section:

We note that many of our exchanges have considered the fact, that Stamford failed to vote an appropriation of $1,000 for the entertainment of our summer guests, a good news item. That Stamford couldn't, or wouldn't support a baseball team is a matter of lively interest to them. Reading between the lines of a few of the items, the suggestion is apparent that whatever prestige we may have gained is wobbling, that the "Queen of the Catskills" is showing evidence of becoming the weather beaten hive of a colony of drones. Whatever the impression that may have gone forth following the unfortunate stubbing of our community toe over this amusement proposition, it is gratifyingly apparent that the slight reverse has had a stimulating effect, and citizens who did not appreciate what was involved and voted against the proposition, are now pulling off their coats and working together to remedy the situation. At the meeting in village hall last evening, presided over by R. S. Welch, every man present registered his approval in favor of securing a baseball team for the coming season. There's unanimity of opinion to hearten any committee!

Stamford will have a baseball team and a good one. Those who attended the baseball meeting can understand that. A committee has volunteered to make a house-to-house canvass for subscriptions and every dollar donated will be accounted for. The names of those who contribute and the amount given will be published when the list is closed. It is hoped that every home in the village may be represented on this list.

Oneonta always has a good ball team. That city has learned that it is a valuable asset and money for the support of a team is forthcoming in short order whenever it is called for.

In this matter of keeping the village up near the head of the procession, let us cut out, so far as we can, those insignificant personalities that handicap the community. Let us bury the hatchet—not in our neighbor's head—but underground, sufficiently deep, at least, so that the handle won't be observed by the casual visitor. It may be given us to linger here for many years. Let us create an environment for which no resident may need to apologize—one that will attract by its very spirit of advancement.

ARE YOU THIN AND SCRAWNY?

The Bones of the Body Were Not Intended to Show. Cover Them With Flesh

Nobody wants to be called "fat," but even fat people are better off than those unfortunates who are so painfully thin that they have that "scrawny" look. Especially is this true of women. The rounded figure is the figure of health and beauty. If you are too thin you can add solid, firm flesh by taking Gude's Pepto-Mangan with your meals for a few weeks. It will put you in better health and Nature will restore you to your normal weight. Pepto-Mangan itself does not add weight but it does build up health. You won't be thin and scrawny if you are well.
